

SOLITUDE

Oh, solitude, don't think I like you anymore
You blindfold me and take me through dark corridors
Now you scare me, oh, you're much too strong for me
Your webs feel like chains
Tighter and tighter on my veins

Oh, solitude, don't think I like you anymore
Your arms are hurting me
So let me go, let me go

Your jealous mind and your vengeful heart
You are poisoning the river
The river in my mind

Dark is the ocean we sail
Dark is the light in your eyes
Strange is the taste of your skin
Cold as the touch of a knife
Can't you see what we do?
Can't you see where we go?
Well I think we've lost the moon
And I cannot see the shore

Oh, solitude, can't recognize you anymore
Your voice once sweet and soothing
Is now sounding so rough
The purple woods we used to walk
Have turned into a bazaar of ghosts
The willows wave their tentacles
The shadows open up their jaws

You put words in my mouth
That I can't account for
You talk me into doing things
I don't want to recall

Dark is the ocean we sail
Dark is the light in your eyes
Strange is the taste of your skin
Cold as the touch of a knife
Can't you see what we do?
Can't you see where we go?
Well I think we've lost the moon
And I cannot see the shore

